1. INTEREST

The interest assessment clarifies job descriptions, work personality, and interests. This assessment gives a clear idea of the self-knowledge and world of work.

1. (a) SOCIAL

Individuals who have social personality types are humanistic, responsible, dedicated leaders, and supportive. You would use words, feelings, and ideas to work with people rather than physical activities of doing things. You would enjoy participating in group activities and training, helping, counselling, healing, or developing others. The preferred work environment of the social type allows for significant work interaction with others and encourages teamwork.

Career Opportunities - Social Working, Counselling/Psychology, Nursing and Teaching.

1. (b) INVESTIGATIVE

You tend to become an investigative person when you are intellectual, analytical, and scholarly. You would enjoy mathematical, research, or scientific activities. People who fall into this category would enjoy using and solving complex and abstract problems. You would place high regard for Science and Math. So, instead of working hands-on, you would like to study, read, use books and other data.

Career Opportunities - Research scholars in the field of science such as biologists, medical technologists, chemists and system analysts.

1. (c) CONVENTIONAL

You are viewed as a conventional person when you are careful, quiet, well organized, responsible, and task-oriented. A conventional personality type would like to work with numbers and data, carry out tasks in detail, and follow through on the instructions of others. You enjoy leading, guiding, influencing, and motivating people and make them finish the goals that are set.

Career Opportunities - Clerical Jobs, Record Keeping, Secretary Job Roles, Banker and Administrator.
